

Zeno, At Home Secret Weapon for Acne, Now Available in St. Louis Without Prescription, from Dr. Amy Miller

Fashionable zit removal? Dr. Amy Miller is now backing up Zeno at her St. Louis Skin Solutions office. Zeno is an FDA-cleared, medical, handheld, at home device, similar looking to an iPod, that is clinically proven to make pimples disappear fast.

(PRWEB) October 5, 2005 -- For those of you with mild to moderate acne, and here and there breakouts, there is now a quick fix to help you with those zits. Amy Miller, M.D. now carries Zeno.

This device is for at home use, to heat up the bacteria that cause the acne breakout, causing the bacteria to self-destruct, clearing your skin as fast as 24 hours later. In tests, this all-natural concept to quickly remove acne, offers effectiveness on most acne within a matter of days if not sooner, rather than weeks which is a common problem with over the counter solutions and prescription treatments.

How does Zeno work? You place the device on the pimple for 2½-minutes, two or three times in a day. The device releases heat, which is warm to the touch, yet not uncomfortable. The heat comes from the tip, which safely heats up to a pre-set temperature range known to generate enough heat to destroy the bacteria in the acne lesion.

The device beeps every 30 seconds, and then beeps a multiple times at the end so you know when the 2 ½ minutes is up. You repeat this process two more time throughout the day, and -- WAH-LAH -- within 24 hours most pimples will have cleared up. It's that simple.

The best part is that you can carry Zeno in your pocket or purse and no one would know the difference. The device is for at home or on the run use, so the next question is how much does it retail for.

It's only around $225.00, with a replacement tip that needs to be changed every 3-5 months. Not too bad for a quicker fix on acne without all the creams, gels, prescriptions and washes. A regular skin care routine from your doctor is always recommended.
